

Tim Price bank.nz submission

From: Tim Price

Received: 6 March 2007

I object to the proposed 2LD for the following reasons.

I do not see the need for the creation of a new, potentially confusing 2LD for the proposed use of "16 registered banks within New Zealand" into an already cluttered .nz domain space.

The applicant also proposes to further exclude not registered banks such as building societies, credit unions and financial co-operatives by creating a paranoia that "Unless they have a .bank.nz domain you can't trust them".

I also agree with Richard Thomas's submission that "Most scammers do not bother registering domains similar to the ones being phished"

In conclusion I consider this proposal unnecessary, elitist and potentially confusing.
